I'd like the memory of me to be a happy one,
I'd like to leave an afterglow of smiles when life is done.
I'd like to leave an echo whispering softly down the ways, of happy times and laughing times and bright and sunny days.
I'd like the tears of those who grieve, to dry before the sun of happy memories that I leave behind when day is done.

“ Uncle J will always have a special place in my heart. He was honest about who he was. The good and the bad were boldly displayed. He lived fast and hard. He did everything with passion. While I was too young to ever understand the complexity of his life choices, I do believe he lived the best way he knew how. I have shared so many tender moments with him throughout my life. Wonderful memories of singing poorly and dancing around the house. I learned some very valuable life lessons from him. He taught me not to judge those by their history but by their current actions. He was always fun and loving towards me. He gave the best bear hugs. Im proud to call him my uncle because he was a pretty great uncle. He served the title well. I regret that we were not as close at the time of his passing as we could have been. But I will always love him and remember him fondly.
