

Matthew Robert Sharpe

July 4, 1991 - June 12, 2023

Don't think of him as gone away
his journey's just begun, life holds so many facets
this earth is only one.
Just think of him as resting from the sorrows and the tears in a place of warmth and comfort where there are no days and years.
Think how he must be wishing that we could know today
how nothing but our sadness can really pass away.
And think of him as living in the hearts of those he touched... for nothing loved is ever lost and he was loved so much.

Always and Forever in our Hearts.

Thank you for the thoughts of kind sympathy at a time when the world seems like a cold and empty place. Despite our heavy hearts, your kindness and support are gentle reminders that love and hope still exists. Perhaps in the coming days, we will begin to feel our burden lifting.

“ Many don't know what to share at a time such as this. Especially when the loss comes so suddenly, and far too soon. But I want to share my brief, but memorable thoughts about this young man whom I hardly knew well, but it didn't take long to formulate an opinion, and a deep like for Matt. In the short time that i knew him, and spent time with him, he was a big guy. And that could be intimidating for some. But a few moments in this young man's presence, and it was immediately apparent, that you had nothing to worry about. Humble, quick to smile, and from what I learned, an almost immediately disarming sense of wit and humor. Gentle, thoughtful, and an apparent lover of friends. He stretch you as a man you wanted to be friends with. Matt, I did not know you nearly long enough, nor deeply enough personally. But you possessed all the qualities of a true man. A true man is not quick to anger, rather quick to forgive. Not able to crush those who stand as enemies, but who responds with kindness. A true man is seldom what this world tells us he is, but rather just the opposite. And it is that difference, that sets apart a true man from the rest. My hats off to you Matt. An example of a true man by all means. Casey.
